WHAT IS A TIMELINE?

- A representation of important events in the order in which they occurred.
- They help us decide what to include in our story.
- They give us a map to follow. We can pinpoint the story structure and plan where characters and storylines will intersect.

WHY MAKE TIMELINES?

- Timelines keep you organized.
- They help you keep your facts straight.
- They give you a history for characters to talk about.
- They help you create a history that influences current events.
- They helps you intersect real history in a historical story.
- They guide the writing and help keep the storyline tight.
- They keep your plot happening in a realistic manner.
- They help you see plot holes.
- They help you deepen character storylines and find places where they can intersect.

EARLY STORY DECISIONS INVOLVE TIME

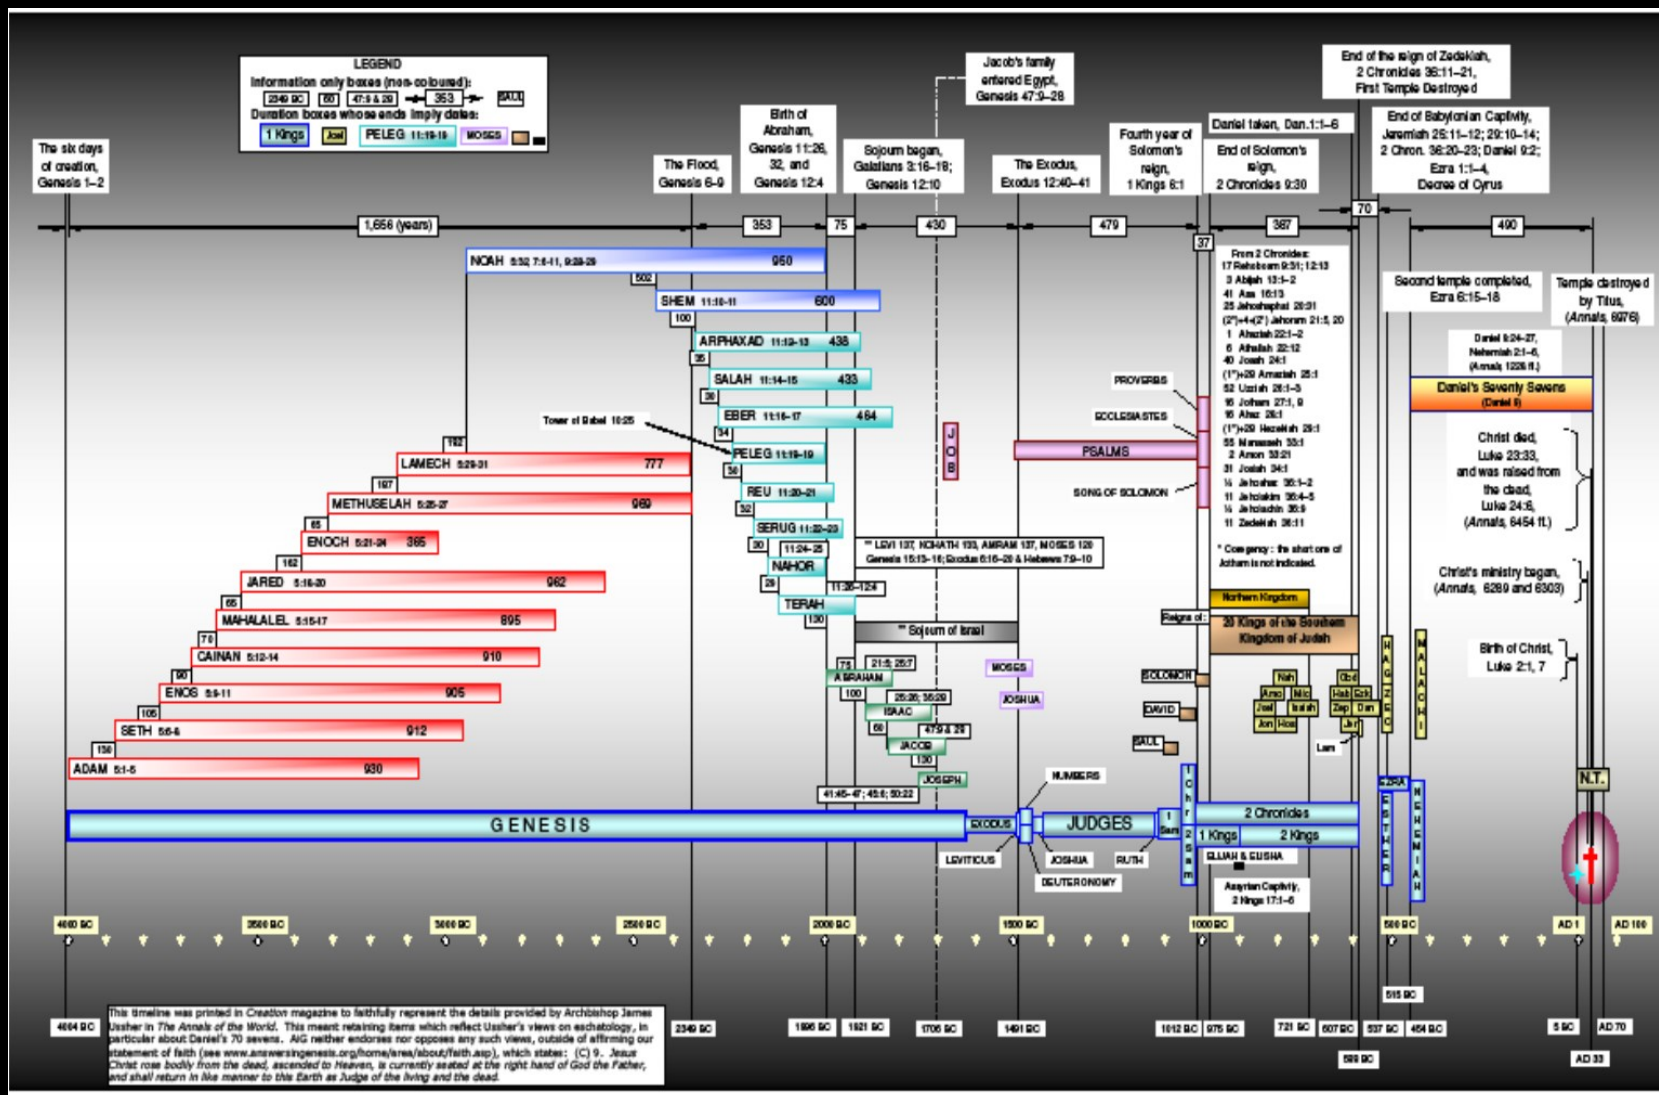

- Time passing by does not affect the length of a book.
- A book might span a single day. One sentence might cover a lifetime.
- Decide what story you are going to tell and how much time you will need to tell it.
- How old will you characters be at the start of the story?
- How old will they be at the end?
- Where does the story start? What places will they go? How long does it take to get from place to place? Where will the story end?
- All of these decisions about time will help you tell your story.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF TIMELINES

- Historical timelines help you discover and make sense of the world. They help you organize backstory and world building.
- Current-day timelines help with plot, character actions, pacing, and the story's flow.
- Both help your story feel more realistic.

MAKE YOUR OWN

- Decide what type on timeline you need.
- Make a list of important events.
 - Births, wars, changes in government, new jobs, etc.
- Add fun stuff too.
 - The smoke and mirrors makes readers think you thought of everything.
- Have a reason for the events that really matter.
 - Darkness, Mr. Wickham, Timeline book/movie
- Look for holes that need to be filled.
- Look for things that aren't working and tweak them.
 - Beauty and the Beast prologue (10 year old kid learn how to love, cursed for 10 years...)

THE KINSMAN CHRONICLES

- Prequels can be trouble!
- I started with the oldest year mentioned in the book and ended with the current year.
- I added deaths of kings, coronations, marriages, and birthdates of royalty and main characters.
- I studied a timeline of England's kings to give inspiration as to length of rule, deaths, marriages, and successions, etc.
- I also referenced a timeline for the War of the Roses, which inspired ideas for minor political disagreements.
- I filled in dates for a recent war, an important treaty, and prophecies—all events mentioned in the story.
- I did this to a lesser extent with the other cultures in my series.
